DILATORY TACTICS.

Slow Progress of the Senate on the Amended Tariff Bill.

QUAY'S FILIBUSTERING MEASURE.

The Pennsylvania Senator Admits His Desire to Retard the Tariff Bill—A Republican Caucus Called for Monday Evening—The Democrats Standing Together.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The Republicans of the senate, under the leadership of Mr. Quay, yesterday attempted a flank movement, which, while unsuccessful, is nevertheless fraught with great possibilities for time killing. Senator Quay introduced a bill of [illegible] pages and asked for its reading in full. Hours could have been consumed in this way. This was formerly a favorite method of filibustering in the house. An objection carried the bill over, but no parliamentary method can be employed to prevent its reading if Mr. Quay insists. In the course of the colloquy on the subject Mr. Quay boldly avowed his filibustering motive, declaring defiantly that he thought time would be better employed that way than in considering the tariff bill. Three amendments to the first three items of the chemical schedule were adopted. This represented six hours' work. The senate is now on about the fifth paragraph. There are about 700 paragraphs in the bill.

The Republican senators, by their votes yesterday and also in private conversation, indicated the purpose of voting for the amendments proposed by the Democratic compromise committee wherever they increase duties and change from the ad valorem to the specific system. This question of policy will be discussed at the Republican caucus which is to be held on Monday night. Among other matters which probably will also receive attention at the hands of the caucus is that of the policy to be pursued in debating the tariff bill. There are some Republican senators who hold that if the Republicans are to pursue the policy of aiding the Democrats in perfecting the bill by voting for the amendments it is useless to prolong the debate and extend the session merely to have the bill pass in the end in the shape the Democrats desire it, as expressed in their caucus.

The proceedings of the senate yesterday have served to emphasize the intention of the Republicans to explore every phase of all the questions presented in every paragraph, and of the Democrats to permit the Republicans to consume the greater part of the time that is to be devoted to talking. The speeches on the Republican side were calculated to arouse the Democratic managers of the bill, and were in some instances as [illegible] as a speaker could well be under the rules of the senate, but they were only partly successful in provoking Democrats to a response. It was noticeable that the Democrats, with the exception of Senator Mills, stood by the committee recommendations on all votes. Senators Hill and Irby, concerning whose position there has been speculation, were absent, but Senator Murphy, whose position has been considered somewhat doubtful, stood with his party.

This practically solid vote on the Democratic side has given the Republicans no little concern, as they have been hopeful of creating division among the Democrats. Some of them predict that the cohesion so far displayed will not continue, but the information obtainable at this time indicate that, however unsatisfactory the bill is to a number of the Democrats, it will continue for the present at least to receive the voting support of all Democratic senators, with possibly one or two exceptions.

The naval appropriation bill again occupied the attention of the house yesterday without being finally disposed of. General debate on the bill was closed, however, after a heated controversy between Messrs. Reed, Boutelle and Cummings. The bringing up of old scandals against ex-secretary of the Navy Robeson and allegations of Republican mismanagement of the navy department in general and the "colonization" of voters at the navy yards at election times in particular were responsible for the turbulent closing of the day's session. At 5 o'clock a recess was taken until 8, the evening session being devoted to private bills on the calendar.

BRIDGEPORT, Pa., May 12.—The Valentine iron works at this place banked its furnace on account of the scarcity of coke, caused by the strike in the bituminous coal regions. The closing down of the furnace will throw a large number of men out of employment until the strike is over.

AN ELEPHANT EXECUTED.

"Tip" Yields to Several Doses of Cyanide of Potassium.

NEW YORK, May 12.—"Tip," the man-killing elephant, is dead. He died from the effects of poison at 4:50 p. m. yesterday in his cage at the Central park. After he had given up the ghost the authorities waited an hour to be positive that "Tip" was not "shamming" before they permitted the members of the press to view the deceased. The execution was private, newspaper reporters being strictly excluded.

"It is an outrageous, star chamber proceeding," chorused all of the scribes of Gotham.

"It was a question of saving all your lives," said Park Commissioner Bell. "If a drop of that elephant's saliva had touched the mucous membrane of any one of you, [illegible] there would have been a dead man almost to an instant."

George R. Burns, assistant superintendent of the menagerie, told the story briefly. "All through the day we tried to administer the prussic acid of potassium [illegible], but did not succeed. At last we decided on bran, and used smaller capsules. Keeper Snyder made up balls of wet bran, in each one of which was placed a capsule containing about five or six grains of the cyanide. They were placed in the ordinary pail in which food had been given him before. Shortly before 4 o'clock he put his trunk in the pail and took up a ball of bran, blew it down his throat. Several others followed and then he stopped. Something seemed to trouble him. He moved to the front of the cage and rubbed his side against the bars. Then he trumpeted once or twice, and at the end of four minutes seemed to go into convulsions, his body swelled, and in his efforts to stretch and reach he burst the chain that went around his body. He next seemed frantic, reared up and pawed with his fore feet against the outer wall of his cage. Getting down on the four again he walked toward the door until, reaching the limit of the heavy chain which secured his forelegs to two of the front bars he stumbled and fell, and died in just twelve minutes from the time he took the first ball of wet bran."

Before the information was all imparted the dissectors, eight in number, under the direction of John Rowley, chief taxidermist of the museum, had commenced their work, so that before the sun rose today Tip was divided up. His hide and skeleton will go to Dr. William Wallace to be placed alongside of Jumbo in the Museum of Natural History; his viscera will go to Dr. S. Huntington for the College of Physicians and Surgeons, and his eyes to the Ear and Eye Infirmary.

Trouble has been brewing for some time, the men demanding the restoration of a 33⅓ per cent cut in their wages made last year. The employers refused the demand and asserted that they were running the plant for the purpose of giving the men employment.

Deyo, will be detained at Binghampton a few days, owing to the death of a relative.

AN INDUSTRIAL KILLED

Shot by a Constable After His Gang Had Seized a Train.

ROCKLIN, Cal., May 12.—A constable at this place yesterday killed a commander in the Industrial army marching east from Sacramento. The slayer was Constable Fleckinger and the victim Colonel Pailey. The army, under command of Lieutenant General Smith, 700 strong, seized a freight train at Arcade station and came to Rocklin. Engineer Williams, a member of the party, was placed under arrest by Constable Fleckinger. Smith and Colonel Pailey protested. A quarrel ensued and Fleckinger drew a pistol and pointed at Smith, who jumped to one side, whereupon the constable shot and killed Pailey. The Industrials became furious and started to lynch Fleckinger. General Smith, however, protected him and aided him to escape. Engineer Williams meanwhile had been locked up. The Industrials demanded his release, and the citizens, fearing further trouble, liberated him.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., May 12.—Randall's Commonwealers were met by the police yesterday afternoon and hustled through the city by the shortest route to Island Park. They were furnished provisions for supper and for breakfast, and ordered to move on today. The authorities assert that should any of the men refuse they will be placed at work on the stone pile.

NORTH YAKIMA, Wash., May 12.—Another collision occurred between deputy marshals and Commonwealers yesterday, and two of the latter are now confined at the hospital suffering from gunshot wounds. The Industrials had captured two freight cars and were fired upon while attempting to avoid arrest by flight. Over a hundred were locked up.

NEWARK, N. J., May 12.—Sixty-four members of the Connecticut contingent of Coxey's army arrived here yesterday afternoon. They were headed by Captain Crawford and Adjutant Timothy Whalen. They left this morning for Washington by way of Elizabeth.

ELLENSBURG, Wash., May 12.—Four of the Industrials who started down the Yakima river in a boat were drowned by the capsizing of the boat, which was caught in an eddy. The boat contained twenty-five men in all.

The Opposition to Breckinridge.

LEXINGTON, Ky., May 12.—Hon. William C. Owens, Colonel Breckinridge's chief opponent for the Democratic congressional nomination, is to speak in Lexington some day next week. The women of the city have conceived the idea of emphasizing their protest against Colonel Breckinridge's candidacy by personally joining in making this meeting an ovation for Owens. The boxes in the opera house are to be filled with representative women of the Blue Grass region, who have heretofore taken little public interest in politics, and the body of the house will contain large delegations of women. The women are so thoroughly aroused that they are withdrawing patronage from merchants favorable to Colonel Breckinridge.

The Mine Strike in Maryland.

CUMBERLAND, Md., May 12.—The situation at the mines is practically unchanged. Advices from the George's Creek region are to the effect that a majority of the men want to continue at work, but that the strikers and their sympathizers are intimidating them. The dispatches add that while no violence was attempted the strikers, who number between 700 and 800 men, are prepared to resort to extreme measures to carry their point. Some of the mine owners are in favor of posting notices upon the company's property calling upon the strikers to return to work within a specified time, and if the notice is disregarded to discharge the men and start up with new forces.

Sensation in the Meyer Trial.

NEW YORK, May 12.—After the adjournment of the Meyer trial yesterday counsel for the defense gave out a startling statement. It is to the effect that after Thursday's adjournment Deputy Sheriffs William Leonard and Schwab, who have charge of Mrs. Meyer, tried to force her to turn state's evidence, offering money. Failing in this they took her to a saloon yesterday and drugged her by giving her some powders in red wine. Mrs. Meyer says the charge is true.

Decided Against "Professor" Mitchell.

NEW YORK, May 12.—Judge Gildersleeve, of the superior court, handed down a decision refusing to grant pugilist Charley Mitchell an injunction restraining Dick & Fitzgerald, publishers, from publishing a book called "Mitchell's Art of Boxing, by Professor Charles Mitchell." The defendants entered the plea that they had bought the plates for the book from Street & Smith, and that they had been duly copyrighted by the latter.

A QUADRUPLE MURDER.

The Terrible Butchery of a Family in Missouri.

A SEVEN-YEAR-OLD GIRL ESCAPED.

The Father, Mother and Two Other Children, However, Were Brutally Slain to Prevent Evidence in a Criminal Case, While the Survivor Was Left for Dead.

MILAN, Mo., May 12.—A most atrocious crime was committed Thursday night near Browning. Gus Meeks, his wife and two children were murdered outright and another of the Meeks' children, a girl 7 years old, was so badly injured that she may not recover. The circumstances leading up to the crime are about as follows:

There are a number of criminal cases pending in Lynn and Sullivan county against William P. Taylor and George Taylor, brothers, the former being a banker of Browning and the latter a farmer. The charges against them are forgery, arson and larceny. William P. Taylor, Gus Meeks and others are jointly indicted, and Meeks pleaded guilty at the last term and was sent to the penitentiary. About a month ago he was pardoned by Governor Stone in order to use him as a witness against the Taylors, who were in consequence anxious to be rid of him.

It is said the Taylors had arranged with Meeks to give the latter a wagon and team to get out of the county, so that he might not be present when the case against the Taylors was called for trial. From Meeks' mother it is learned that on Thursday her son received a letter from the Taylors at Browning telling him to be ready at 10 o'clock Thursday night to go away; that Gus Meeks and children waited for Taylor until midnight, when two men whom Meeks said were George and Bill Taylor, came to their home in a wagon. Meeks and his family got into the wagon and started for Browning. The details of the crime, as near as can be obtained, were told by the little 7-year-old girl, who was suffering greatly as she recited the story.

It appears that when the Meeks family and the persons accompanying them reached a point near the school house, in Lynn county, a short distance east of Browning, they were met by two other men who were lying in wait. Gus Meeks was first shot, and Mrs. Meeks was also killed. The murderers then took stones and beat the brains out of two of the children, and left the other for dead. The murderers then, it is supposed, loaded the whole family into the wagon and hauled them nearly two miles to the Taylor farm, where they were buried under a strawstack.

Yesterday morning the oldest child came to her senses and made her way to the residence of a Mr. Carter near by. The Carter family then sent a boy to the Taylor farm, where he found the murdered family as stated by the Meeks girl. The Carter boy then saw George Taylor and innocently told him of the murder, as described by the almost dying child. George Taylor immediately started for Browning on horseback, got his brother William, and both departed on horseback. Their departure from Browning was before the knowledge of the murder had reached there.

The little girl recovered sufficiently to describe some of the parties and upon her evidence one Sharon McCullough, of Gould, and George Fowlers, of Linn county, have been arrested as participants in the crime. A party of citizens from Milan and Browning found at the place of the murder the revolver and a stone with which the murderers had shot and killed the father and mother and beat out the brains of the two children and left the other for dead.

Neither Strikes Nor Foreign Distrust Long Retard Progress Here.

NEW YORK, May 12.—The strikes begin to have a serious effect, though it is assumed only a temporary effect. The number of works depending upon supplies of bituminous coal or coke for fuel is large, and quite a considerable proportion of it has already been compelled to stop operations. Textile works of some importance must close soon unless the strike ceases. The movement of so-called armies of unemployed on Washington has caused little excitement and is less important or significant than the outward movement of specie, which shows shrinking foreign demand for products, and further withdrawal of foreign capital. But neither strikes nor foreign distrust long retard the progress of this country.

One large failure almost doubled the aggregate of liabilities for firms failing in the week ending May 3, which would otherwise have been quite small, but were $5,[illegible]. The number and the general average of liabilities are still encouragingly shrinking. For four weeks of April the liabilities reported were $8,[illegible], of which $3,[illegible] were of manufacturing and $4,[illegible] of trading concerns. For the past week the failures have been 206 in the United States, against 237 for the corresponding week of last year, and 43 in Canada, against 22 last year, with none of special importance, though four bank failures are included.

Shot and Stabbed by a Lunatic.

UTICA, N. Y., May 12.—Dr. J. Lyman Bulkley, ex-sheriff and ex-assemblyman, was brutally shot and stabbed in his own dooryard at Sandy Creek. A young man called at his residence and told the doctor his name was Williams and that he had doctored him some thirteen years previous. He said the doctor did not cure him, and that he had come to settle the matter. A terrible struggle followed, and the doctor was left lying on the ground in a critical condition. Williams was afterward found dead in a field, having shot himself. Williams had just been released from an insane asylum.

A Determined Suicide.

NEW YORK, May 12.—William G. Spellman committed suicide in a room at the Hotel Albert. He was a married man, 35 years old, and resided at [illegible] Broadway. Death resulted from gas suffocation. Spellman registered at the hotel shortly after midnight, and was assigned to Room 10. Before retiring he left instructions to be called at 8 o'clock in the morning. At that hour the occupant was found undressed upon the bed. A rubber tube leading from the gas burner was in his mouth. It was held securely by a string.

A New Law of Libel.

ALBANY, May 12.—One of the measures signed by Governor Flower yesterday was of interest to all newspaper proprietors. It provides that any person who wilfully transmits to any manager, editor, publisher, reporter, or other employe of a publisher of any newspaper, magazine, publication, periodical or serial any statement concerning any person or corporation, which, if published therein, would be a libel, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

Did Not Aid Da Gama.

LONDON, May 12.—Sir J. Blundell Maple, member of parliament for the Dulwich division of Camberwell, recently drew the government's attention to a published dispatch, dated Rio de Janeiro, which said that the British naval commander at that port had extended assistance to Admiral da Gama, the insurgent leader. He has received a reply from the foreign office saying that the statement is absolutely untrue.

CHESTER, Pa., May 12.—George McCracken, of South Chester, was waylaid last night near the corner of Fifth and Flower streets. When Mr. McCracken demurred one of the men struck him with a blackjack. The men escaped.

TRIBUTE TO TALMAGE.

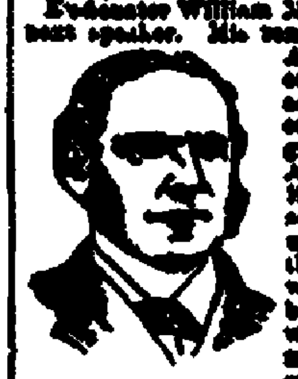
The Eloquent Preacher's Anniversary Celebration.

THE ADDRESS OF SENATOR WALSH.

The Georgia Catholic Extols the Work of the New York Presbyterian in Words of Burning Eloquence—Congratulations from Distinguished Men at Home and Abroad.

BROOKLYN, May 12.—The Brooklyn Tabernacle was again crowded to its utmost capacity last evening at the continuance of the celebration of the Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage's silver jubilee in honor of the completion of the twenty-fifth year of his pastorate. The proceedings on this occasion were of a national and international character, and were presided over by General Benjamin F. Tracy, ex-secretary of the navy. General Tracy in his introductory address spoke of the great work that had been accomplished by Dr. Talmage.

Ex-Senator William M. Evarts was the next speaker. His remarks were brief. At the conclusion of the ex-senator's address a number of letters and telegrams were read. A cablegram from Herbert Gladstone, son of the ex-premier, stated that the latter was somewhat out of health, but sent his best wishes to Dr. Talmage. Other messages were read from distinguished men both in the United States and in Europe, and then Congressman Hendrix delivered a congratulatory address. He was followed by United States Senator Walsh of Georgia, who spoke in part as follows:



DR. TALMAGE.

"Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage has devoted his life to the cause of God and humanity. He has been not only a hearer, but a doer of the word. When the south was prostrated by the desolations of war, when her homes were destroyed, her lands and industries wasted, when her sons and daughters were weeping for the loved and lost, when despair wrung the hearts of her people, his voice was heard appealing to the victors for justice to the vanquished, and from that day to this he has preached the doctrine of peace, fraternity, liberty and equality.

"In behalf of the people of Georgia I extend to Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage their congratulations on the twenty-fifth anniversary of his pastorate of the Brooklyn Tabernacle. During his long life he has gone about doing good. He has imitated his Master in carrying out His precepts.

"His ministry is not confined to the United States. His name has gone abroad throughout the civilized world. In the pulpit, on the rostrum and in the press he has been heard from and read by millions of people, who have been spiritually uplifted by his teaching. His countrymen admire him for his splendid gifts. They admire him for the example of his noble life. We of the south admire him for his loving the sections into peace. His love of country is one of his strongest virtues. He is above party and above section. Like the Father of his Country, he is a patriot, deprecating the passions and prejudices of partisan politics, and always contending for a united people and a united country.

"Dr. Talmage's benevolence has not been confined to his own country. Wherever humanity is suffering his heart goes out in sympathy to the afflicted of all races and creeds. He would succor the heathen in darkest Africa, as he fed the poor in Russia. He would clothe the naked and lift up the suffering and oppressed in every land, because he is an American, and believes with the Great Apostle of civil and religious liberty that all men are created free and equal and are entitled to the inalienable rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

"The constitution of our country demands that congress shall make no laws respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press; or the right to peaceably assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances." This is the law and the prophets of our guidance as citizens of this republic and whether they be Protestants, Jews or profess any other form of belief they should be protected in their rights of civil and religious liberty. The founders of this republic secured for themselves and their descendants the most perfect form of government.

"The name of T. DeWitt Talmage is inscribed on the roll of fame. I am here as a representative of my people to rejoice with him because his justice abounded as a peacemaker when they were [illegible] and persecuted. That he may live long to enjoy the rewards and blessings of a life crowned by noble deeds is the prayer of one who holds [illegible] the principles of civil and religious liberty."

Dr. Talmage made an exceedingly happy and characteristic address, offering a million thanks for the honors rendered on him. In [illegible]

"ADAMANT" WALL PLASTER!
The New, Cheap Substitute for Common Plaster.

It is very hard and very adhesive; it does away with the warping and shrinkage of doors and casings, and the building is not saturated with water, as it necessarily must be when common plaster is used; it costs originally but little more than lime plaster, and in the end its superior qualities make it immeasurably cheaper; it saves waiting several weeks or months for the building to dry out; it does not crack or fall off, even in the case of leakage; it is applied easily by any good plasterer; it is the only material with which repairing can be done neatly and "to stay."

FOR HER.

For her the sweetest blossoms should breathe a perfume rare.
For her the tenderest music should come floating through the air.
For her the choicest pleasures should bedeck and pave the way
And brightest beams of sunlight at her feet in glory play.

For her the blushing rosebud should discard its cruel thorn
And for her heaving bosom other eager searchers scorn.
For her a pure contentment should throw its arms about
And circle her, while pleasure shuts all care and sorrow out.

For her I'd make the journey through this land of bitter tears
A lasting day of smiling love, devoid of doubt and fears.
Her path should glow resplendent, the way be like a dream.
I'd make her life with happiness like dearest heaven seem.

BUD'S COPY.

The city editor opened the door and peered impatiently through the clouds of smoke rolling up over the long center table in the reporters' room.

"Did you get that story, Carleton?" he asked.

"Carleton's not in yet, Mr. Howard," one of the men replied. "He"——

But the door shut with a bang, to open a minute later, when the same worried voice inquired:

"Where's Bud? No; I suppose he isn't to be found either! Did any one ever know him to be on hand when he was wanted? Here, Bud," as the grimy faced galley and general utility boy in question came in with his proofs, "go down to the foot of F street and find Carleton. There's a wreck off the point, but it won't do us any good unless he gets here with that copy pretty soon. We go to press at 3 o'clock—in just two hours. Bud"——

He stopped with a half smile, for the boy was already part way down the stairs on his way to the street.

None of us knew exactly why we gave the weird, shriveled specimen of boyhood the name of Bud. Possibly it was because of the certainty we felt that he would never become a blossom. He was a thin shouldered, sunken chested little fellow, small even for his 12 years, with a sharp featured, unchildish face, and the suggestion of eternal croup in his voice. He had drifted into the office one stormy night about a year before the time of which I write, and although his request for "a place" had been promptly refused he had calmly staid on and become a fixture. He was not communicative about himself, and we were not particularly curious. One of the women proofreaders discovered before long that the gray rat under her desk was not a more constant habitue of the office than was Bud. He spent the hours between the time that the paper went to press and the arrival of the day men at 11 o'clock sleeping on a pile of empty mail sacks in a dark corner of the engine room, but from that time on he was alert and ready for business.

As "understudy" for Frank, the regular galley boy, he was fast picking up a knowledge of printing and had occasionally displayed a surprising amount of information regarding the general makeup of a newspaper. Strongly imbued with the idea that all things were secondary in importance and must be subservient to its requirements, nothing pleased him so much as an errand of the kind just given him by the city editor, and we all knew he would return on time if he was alive.

Carleton was a new man on the paper, a little green in the business, but with a "nose for news" and a sense of honor and the eternal fitness of things, coupled with reliability of statement. Mr. Howard had looked over his staff that night before giving the assignment.

"Get to that wreck, Carleton," he said testily. "You are the only man here who can write it up without having the waves roll mountain high." And the new reporter had torn a thick section from the block of copy paper and hurried away.

Bud found no difficulty in locating the wreck, although he could see its dark spars outlined against the sky much better by running along the water front as far as H street. The storm, which had been raging for three days and had finally caused the disaster, had subsided a trifle, and from his distance the great, black hulk seemed resting easily upon the waves. On account of the hour there were but few spectators—only the hurrying life saving crews, the patrolmen and the inevitable groups of ragged wharf rats. And Bud observed, with delight, that not another paper had a reporter on the scene. He looked around for Carleton, and some one told him that the "chap" that had been writing there for a long time, sitting on an overturned small boat, had at last righted the little craft and set off for the half submerged ship.

"He hadn't oughter either," the man continued. "This water ain't as peaceful as it looks. We had a hard pull gettin in the last trip with the passengers, and the wind is risin higher every minute."

It was true that the clouds had begun to roll again, while the lightning threw ever sharper and more jagged fangs across the sky. The crew on shore made hasty preparations to put out. There were still many people aboard the wreck—a number of them women and children. Bud was the first one in the boat.

"Come out of that, youngster," said a sailor. "Be quick with you!"

"I'm goin," cried the boy. "I've got to see Carleton—I've got to, I tell you!"

The sailor's hand was on his collar, but Bud clung to the seat with desperation, the muscles in his little hands standing out like a gladiator's.

"I've got to get something for the paper," and his voice rose to a shrill scream.

The man lifted him out, sat him—not ungently—down on the wet sand and pushed off the boat. With a fierce cry the boy was after him, clinging like a monkey to its side. The sailor loosened the boy's hands, and he dropped backward into the water. He scrambled to the shore and stood choking with impotent rage, strange oaths pouring from his lips and his frail hands beating at the air.

The wind increased in violence. The thunder was terrific, and the heavens were cut with broad, white blades. The night grew ever blacker, but he could see by the flashes that the lifeboat rolled heavily and seemed in distress. He sank down and dug his hands deep into the sand. All at once a peal of thunder shook the solid earth. A flash of lightning leaped down and seemed to lap up the sea and ships. Bud uncovered his eyes, and in a moment his shrill voice was added to the chorus of agony sent up from among the flames of the fated steamer. Lightning had struck her, and the boy had heard the sailors say that she carried a consignment of coal oil.

The light was bright enough now, and the watchers could see a small, dark object leave her luminous side and head toward shore. It was the small boat. Bud screamed in ecstasy as he saw a man—Carleton—work at the oars. The time seemed an eternity, and the boat, overcrowded as it was with women and children, seemed to make no progress. It was in danger of swamping. How long before the explosion must occur?

The boy threw himself face downward upon the beach and waited. Presently he lifted his eyes and saw the man in the boat rise and gently put back the hands that were extended toward him, as if in entreaty, and then with a long leap spring into the ocean. Bud saw him strike out with strong, confident strokes, while the boat, relieved of his weight, made a leap forward. Then there was a sudden darkening of the sky as the flames swirled downward, followed by a long, reverberating shock and roar, a glare that turned the heavens into fire, while the waves hissed around the scene with the foam at their lips stained red. There was a hurrying back and forth along the shore, the whirling of long ropes, lassolike, over the waters, and after awhile a few charred, blackened shapes upon the beach.

Bud opened the office door at half past 2.

"This is a nice time for you to show up," growled the city editor. "Where's Carleton? Did you get that copy?"

Bud approached the table slowly, fumbling in his coat with trembling hands.

"I've brought the copy," he said, his lips drawn and ashen. "It's a little wet, 'cause 'twas in his pocket, and"—the boy put his hand up to his throat and sobbed hoarsely—"you see, he—got drowned."—Grace Duffie Roe in Chicago Post.

When you're Rubbing over your washboard, in that painful, old-fashioned way, these are some of your positions. Just try these motions, up and down, without the tub. That will prove how hard they are. Then try Pearline's way of washing.

That will prove how needless and absurd they are. Without the washboard and the rubbing on it, and without bending over the wash-tub or bobbing up and down over it—you save the wear to your clothes and the work for your back. That's Pearline's way. Directions on every package.

Send it Back Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back. 390 JAMES PYLE, New York.

HOW BIG WAS ALEXANDER?

"How big was Alexander, pa?"
No need quote any more;
How well we know the verses
And the moral that they bore!
The little boy was seeking
After knowledge, in his way,
And little boys are asking
Questions such as that to-day.
They are right. To know of great men,
How they live and work, will tell
How to follow in their fortunes,
How to win a place as well;
And the pictures and the stories
Of the great men still alive
Teach the youth of what to seek for,
How to study and to strive.

Dummies In the Band.

Quartermaster Liebich of the Fifth regiment made a discovery once and has been careful ever since whenever he has occasion to engage a band to play martial music for the gallant boys in blue.

"I wanted to engage a brass band," said he, "and there was a certain rivalry among the boys that made it difficult to reach a conclusion. I finally made up my mind and engaged a certain band, and the next day the bandmaster of the rival organization said to me, "You watch your band tomorrow and see that they don't ring in any dummies on you." I didn't know what the man was talking about, so I asked him to explain, and he did. A light then dawned upon me, for he gave the snap deliberately away, that while leaders of certain bands collect so much per man from the people that engage them they frequently ring in people in the band that don't know a bar of music from a bar of soap. They just simply walk along with the rest of the players and nobody is any the wiser. The next day the parade took place, and I followed the advice of the other leader and watched my band carefully. It didn't take long to pick out the two dummies. They just strolled along with the brass instruments at their mouths and acted as though they played without inflating their cheeks. We had to pay for those fellows $8 apiece just the same."

"And what did you do?"

"I asked the leader to tell the two dummies to play solos."

"And they did?"

"Not by a jugful. He simply said that that wasn't in the contract, and he refused to do it. I have had my eyes opened since, and you may rest assured they don't ring in any more 50 cent dummies on me and charge me $8 for them."—Cleveland World.

An Optical Illusion.

If you want a good ending to a little party, take all the guests into the dining room and turn out the gas. Make them all sit around the table, in the middle of which place a soup plate. In the soup plate put some common salt and a little alcohol. Light the alcohol, and then look at each other's faces. They will look natural at first, but as the alcohol burns out and the salt becomes ignited the flame changes from yellow to blue, and the changes in the faces are very startling. They all take on a ghastly look. Eyes stick out, and the skin looks as though drawn tight like parchment. Then the faces become almost black, and when the flame dies out and you go out into a lighted room you unconsciously try to wipe the black off. But it doesn't come. It's all the light from the salt.—Hartford Post.

Reproductive Power of Memory.

As the child, flashing about him a bit of burning stick, may seem to make a circle of flame because the flame point moves so quickly, so memory, though it does go from point to point and dwells for some inconceivably minute instant on each part of the remembrance, may yet be gifted with such lightning speed, with such rapidity and awful quickness of glance, as that to the man himself the effect shall be that his whole life is spread out there before him in one instant, and that he, godlike, sees the end and the beginning side by side.—Maclaren.

A KNIFE

in the hand of a Surgeon gives you a feeling of horror and dread. There is no longer necessity for its use in many diseases formerly regarded as incurable without cutting.

The Triumph of Conservative Surgery is well illustrated by the fact that RUPTURE or Breach, is now radically cured without the knife and without pain. Clumsy, chafing trusses can be thrown away! They never cure but often induce inflammation, strangulation and death.

TUMORS Ovarian, Fibroid (Uterine) and many others, are now removed without the perils of cutting operations.

PILE TUMORS, however large, Fistula and other diseases of the lower bowel, are permanently cured without pain or resort to the knife.

STONE in the Bladder, no matter how large, is crushed, pulverized, washed out and perfectly removed without cutting.

STRICTURE of Urinary Passage is also removed without cutting in hundreds of cases. For pamphlet, references and all particulars, send 10 cents (in stamps) to World's Dispensary Medical Association, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE PRESIDENT COMING TO MIDDLETOWN.

The Sick May Receive Medical Services Free of Charge.

The President and members of the European and American Staff of German, English, Irish, Scandinavian and American Doctors of New York city will be at the Russell House, Middletown, on one day only. The sick and afflicted may consult them without charge during their stay.

If you are incurable they will tell you; therefore invalids must not take offence if they are rejected, as no case will be accepted unless there is a moral certainty of a cure being effected. These Doctors are graduates of the best universities of Europe and America; they are of the highest standing in the medical profession and have had unlimited experience in the treatment of all Chronic Diseases and Deformities. As the latest methods, instruments and appliances of the various schools of both the Old and the New World are familiar to and at the command of this staff of doctors, it is reasonable to believe that in ninety cases out of every hundred a cure can be effected, even when the patients have been given up as incurable by doctors who have had less experience. Do not be discouraged because your doctor cannot give you relief, or even if he tells you that you cannot get well, for it matters not what your disease may be, you can consult the doctors free, and, if curable, they will treat you, if incurable, they will give you such advice as will tend to prolong life and afford you the greatest relief.

The doctor will visit Middletown one day each month. Office hours from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m.

HOMES IN CONFUSION.

Moving and House-Cleaning Days Are Upon Us—Comfortless Men and Cross, Tired Out, Nervous Women.

Van Tromp, with a broom at his masthead, sailed up and down the Thames in defiance

Brooms and dust rags are now putting households everywhere into confusion

The traditional time for moving and house cleaning is upon us. Innumerable cases of weakened nerves, exhausted strength and debility date from these days of feverish exertion, fret and cold rooms.

Every good housewife, however, feels bound to risk health and strength in this annual struggle with dirt and dust.

But as a preparation for great bodily and mental strain, hosts of careful women build up their strength with Paine's celery compound, the great nerve and brain strengthener and restorer. Physicians prescribe it for dyspepsia, kidney trouble, sick headaches, and all forms of nervous weakness, because it makes people well when other remedies can do no good.

Men and women who have the tired, languid feeling that indicates depleted blood and a feeble condition of the nervous system, need Paine's celery compound, the remarkable discovery of Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D., of Dartmouth medical school, the one great spring medicine prescribed by physicians of every school.

Sleep is the necessary condition of of the system to restore its lost powers and retain its vigor. Paine's celery compound quickly repairs the wasted, worn-out, nervous tissues, calms and equalizes nervous action and bring refreshing sleep that makes recovery easy.

There is such a thing as too closely watching for signs of ill health, but, on the other hand, there is a wise attention to signs of weakness and breaking down. Painful sensations and sudden weakness are nature's evident hints. Constipation, with flatulency and nausea, in the early morning, suggests serious trouble. The dull, wearing ache at side and back should make one pause to think.

Bright's disease and disorders of the heart and liver may be positively and permanently cured by taking Paine's celery compound as soon as neuralgia, weakness, rheumatism, lack of appetite, and low spirits show the beginnings of disease of some of these important organs.

One Way to Get Rid of an Insane Cripple

From the Paterson Evening News.

A young woman named Lottie Daley, who is insane and an almost helpless cripple, was brought from Owego, N. Y., to this city, a few days ago, by the poormaster of that place, who left her on the platform of the Erie railroad station and hurriedly boarded the train again, leaving the demented girl alone. A sister of the unfortunate one, who lives on Rip VanWinkle avenue, took her home, but it seems could not control her, and now she is in the women's ward of the jail awaiting some disposition of her case

A Monticello Wife Obtains a Handsome Verdict

Mrs. Kate Williams, daughter of Mr. Cornelius Quinn, of Monticello, has obtained a judgment of $12,500 against her husband's mother, whom she sued for alienation of the affections of her husband, Ed. Williams.

The marriage took place in 1888, in New York city. They afterwards removed to Denver, where, in 1890, the alienation and separation took place.

SATURDAY, MAY 12, 1894.

According to the census bulletin, just published, the wealth of the United States in 1890, amounted to $65,000,000,000, a little more than $1,000 per capita.

New Jersey's Legislature is still in session enacting purely partisan measures, with the avowed purpose of depriving Democrats of office and giving their places to Republicans. The Republican majority has made such an odious record that the people of the State have lost all patience with it and even Republican papers do not hesitate to say that it is making it impossible for New Jersey Republicans to elect another Legislature.

Public Printer Benedict finds the government printing office filled with the dependents of Republican Congressmen, many of whom are not printers at all, while many are carried on the pay rolls though there is no work for them to do. He is not hampered by ridiculous civil service rules, and has already begun to put the office on a business basis by discharging useless and incompetent employes. He expects to save $1,000,000 a year in the expenses of the office.

The women of Lexington, Ky., and of Fayette county have issued a call for a mass meeting, to be held in the Lexington Opera House, Monday, to protest against the renomination of Breckenridge. The feeling against Breckenridge among the women of Lexington is so strong that many of them are boycotting merchants who support his candidacy, and some have even dismissed their family physicians for the same reason. If, however, any of these women have extended any help, or even womanly sympathy to Breckenridge's victim, mention of the fact has not been made by any of the papers.

It must be confessed that the tariff bill, likely to be passed by the present Congress, will fall far short of what the Democratic masses expected and desired and will be marred by many absurdities and imperfections, but, as the Evening Post in discussing the subject well says:

The passage of even a sadly imperfect bill will have the effect of breaking down the hideous superstition to which the Republican party has enslaved itself, and tried to enslave the country, for the past dozen years. [illegible] will not be [illegible] ly closed. Farmers will continue to cultivate the soil and merchants to buy and sell, and railroads and steamships to go on with the business of transportation. After a brief experience of the fact that the industry of man and the natural resources of the country can produce prosperity and happiness independently of the all-wise fiats of a McKinley or a Harrison, it will be possible to discuss questions of taxation and settle its details like rational beings and not like frightened savages cutting themselves with flints before an ugly idol. It is because tariff reformers look confidently forward to such a time that they are comparatively indifferent to the imperfections of the bill that will usher in it.

A GOOD SUGGESTION.

An Ordinance Needed to Protect People From the Results of Their Own Carelessness.

The Common Council should promptly pass an ordinance fixing a penalty for persons who jump and hang upon the electric cars, if in fact the present ordinance relative to jumping on moving trains and vehicles will not cover such offences.

This suggestion comes from a gentleman connected with the road, who says that the danger is not from injury by the cars, but from the fact that so many persons drive close behind the cars to accustom their horses to them, and boys jumping from a car are liable to be run over by the horses and wagons following.

THE PURPLE TEA.

A Very Successful Entertainment by the King's Daughters, of the Second Presbyterian Church.

The Purple Tea, given by the Emmanuel Circle of King's Daughters, of the Second Presbyterian Church, last night, passed off very nicely. There was a large attendance. The lecture room was prettily and tastefully decorated in purple and white.

The entertainment began with a piano solo by W. J. Stevens, which was greatly appreciated. Then followed a violin and guitar duet, by Misses Austin and Benjamin, which was thoroughly enjoyed. Mr. Scott's vocal solo was next on the programme and it was so well rendered that he was enthusiastically recalled.

Then came the secretary's report, read by Miss Nellie Wood. She told how the Order of King's Daughters was started in 1886, in New York city, under the leadership of Mrs. Bottome; of the growth of the society, now numbering hundreds of thousands of daughters and sons of the King; of the object of the order and of its motto and watch words. She then spoke of the work of their circle, what they had done in the past and what they hoped to do in the future, closing the report with a very pretty poem composed by one of the King's Daughters.

Miss Clark then sang "Sweet Marie" very sweetly, but did not respond to an encore. Miss Phillipe's piano solo was admirably rendered. Next came a duet, by Miss Gregory and Mr. Scott. It was so pleasing that they were heartily encored. Miss Cane recited very nicely, "Popping the Question."

Then followed a song about the Purple Tea, composed by another of King's Daughters, and sung by four boys, Linn Hemingway, Peter Totten, Willie Stinebaugh, and John Austin, known as the Purple Quartette. They were becomingly attired in purple aprons and irresistible scarfs. They were heartily applauded.

Mr. Scott then sang another solo.

The entertainment then closed with a piano solo by Mr. Stevens. All present pronounced the tea a grand success.

"JANE."

A Very Popular Comedy at the Casino this Evening.

After unprecedented runs of over 100 nights in the principal cities of the country, the lovers of droll, ridiculous and humorous comedy will eagerly watch for the coming of "Jane" to give her an ovation such as none other has ever received. "Jane" has not only been a success in America, but she has also been a European success, having been presented for over 300 nights in Paris, and 500 in London. In "Jane" Mr. Frohman has secured a comedy whose career will be long and successful and it is doubtful if any comedy can ever take its place in the minds of the people, in which it has become a part and parcel of their existence. "Jane" will be presented at the Casino, this evening.

PEOPLE CAN'T SEE

How we can set up such a fine glass of Ice Cream Soda for 5 cents! Well, some things are done for profit, some for glory, and some just for advertisement. If you get into the habit of dropping into our drug store and find, as you will, everything there right in quality and price, why, we've gained a customer.

The Soda Water is only the keynote—but it's clear, sweet and pure, typical of the high grade of all else we offer.

HOW TO FIT A TRUSS?

Well, that's one of the things to be learned only by experience. It's been one of our specialties for many years, and now it comes easy. Our prices, too, are like our trusses—easily borne. Some pretty steep figures have been asked for trusses not far from here. The victim ought to know better than to pay four times what we charge for as good an article.

McMonagle & Rogers, Druggists, 30 North St.

Pastels makes thin, pale people plump and rosy. Prescribed by physicians and endorsed by many of our customers. We are agents for it.

A seventeen-year-old lad was a prisoner in police court, this morning, on a charge of intoxication. The liveryman would not press the complaint and the young culprit was discharged upon signing the pledge to abstain from the use of intoxicating liquors.

SUIT FOR MALICIOUS LIBEL.

Joseph E. Quigley Brings an Action for $10,000 Against Charles C. Luckey.

A summons and complaint in an action in Supreme Court for $10,000 for malicious libel was served, yesterday, on Mr. Charles C. Luckey. The plaintiff is Mr. Joseph E. Quigley, the proprietor of the Quigley House, corner of Union and Franklin streets.

In substance the grounds on which the suit is based are that Mr. Luckey circulated a petition or circular, addressed to the Board of Excise, to which he secured signatures of citizens on false representations concerning the character of Mr. Quigley, and of his house, and thus prevented the plaintiff from obtaining a license, and thus depriving him of much profit, and disgraced and otherwise injured to his damage in the sum named.

Embodied in the complaint is a copy of the petition or remonstrance to the Board of Excise, and the alleged libelous points are those in which it is asserted that the "saloon is a rendezvous for numerous tramps, who make excursions from there to the residences of respectable citizens of the neighborhood," and that "the [illegible] patrons of the hotel annoy ladies who daily pass, not only through the use of vile language, but by relieving the burden of their stomachs from the stoop of the saloon."

B. F. Chadsey, Esq., is attorney for the plaintiff.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

IN ANCIENT GOSHEN.

Personal Notes—St. James' Guild to Give an Entertainment in July—The Pamphlet Issued by the Vocal Society—Gypsies in Town—An Example of Patience.

From a Special correspondent.

—Mrs. R. C. Coleman, of this village has been summoned to St. Paul, Minn., in consequence of the serious illness of her brother, Judge Westcott Wilkin. The illness is the result of an injury in his hip, received some time since.

—Mr. Jackson D. Steward and family are occupying their summer home in this village.

—Mrs. Wm. H. Nelson and family have returned from Washington, D. C., where they have been spending some time.

—At the meeting of the ladies of St. James' Guild, on Thursday afternoon, it was decided to give an entertainment in the early part of July, the proceeds to be devoted to the paving of the walk that leads to the chapel. It was decided to have the organ tuned.

—A pamphlet just published by the Goshen Vocal Society, descriptive of the June Festival, is a fine specimen of artistic printing. The exterior is prettily decorated in green and silver, and the interior gives full information concerning the times of concerts, soloists, etc.

—A number of gypsies are encamped in Steward's woods, near this village. They have with them quite a large drove of horses.

—There might be a more unpleasant life at this time of the year than that of a gypsy. To drive through the day time under such skies as we have had of late, to be out for hours at a time in the air laden with the fragrance of many blossoms and filled with the sweet notes of countless singing birds must be conducive to happy waking hours and sound sleep at night. To be sure the wagons, in which they live, are not very commodious. A fashionable lady would scarcely find room in one of them for a single pair of sleeves, but the wants of these children of nature are simple and their toilets not elaborate.

—An exemplification of human patience is the woman, who recently sued a man for a thirty years' board bill. There was no such unseemly haste or greed for wealth about that woman. She must have observed to honestly obey the scriptural injunction, to forgive her brother seventy times seven, but found that life was too short. No doubt that particular boarder found more fault with the table and accommodations than any one in the house, who paid his bill regularly. Human nature seems to be built that way very often. C. E.

STILL GROWING IN FAVOR

The Electric Cars Well Patronized—The Summer Car Out, To-day—The Cars to Run Sunday.

The electric railway grows in favor with each succeeding day, and there has been no diminution in the business since the opening day. In fact the cars carried more passengers, yesterday, than on the day previous, and to all appearances there is more travel, to-day.

The first open car was run, this afternoon, and it is a beauty. The public showed its appreciation by giving it its patronage to the open car as far as it was convenient. But as soon as possible the other open car will be put on and the closed cars retired.

While the closed cars are generally admired by the people they are not up to the standard required by the company, and while they are laid up for the summer they will be repainted, re-upholstered and the objectionable mirrors removed from the ends and plate glass windows put in their places, which will give passengers a view of the street in front and rear, instead of a view of their own faces, which those not burdened with a great amount of vanity do not care to gaze upon in public places at least.

The cars will run to-morrow on the same schedule as on week days and fares will be collected by conductors as usual, but those who desire to purchase the thirty trip books should do so to-night, as the office will not be open.

To Attend the Grand Lodge.

Mrs. John Miles and Mrs. Mary Miller will go to Albany, Monday morning, to attend the Grand Lodge of the Rebekah degree of Odd Fellows as the representatives of Martha Washington Lodge, of this city.

World's Columbian Exposition

Was of great value to the world by illustrating the improvements in the mechanical arts and eminent physicians will tell you that the progress in medicinal agents has been of equal importance, and as a strengthening laxative that Syrup of Figs is far in advance of all others.

No Fast Driving on the State Hospital Grounds.

Of late, there has been much fast driving on the State Hospital grounds, and Dr. Talcott has determined that it must stop. It is dangerous to the patients who are permitted to walk out and an abuse of the privilege to use the drives which is accorded to the public. It is hoped that calling attention to the matter will put a stop to fast driving, but if it is persisted in those who drive too rapidly will be arrested and prosecuted.

BIGGAR'S DRESS SUIT.

The Thrifty Parnellite Who Walked Rather Than Pay a Penny.

Talking of the speaker's dinners to members, at which, in compliment to the official position of the host as representative of her majesty in the house of commons, levee dress or uniform is worn by the guests, I was once told a funny story of the late Joseph Biggar, the thorny tempered deformed little bacon merchant who was the aristocratic, refined Parnell's first ally and for some time his only follower in parliament.

Biggar was not a poor man, but he was a thrifty one, and he hated the idea of spending money on a court dress. Yet Mr. Parnell liked his party to appear at the speaker's dinners as asserting their privileges of parliament. So Biggar undertook the irksome expense of hiring a court suit in which to go to dine with the speaker The man who told me the story, another member who was not dining officially that night, was in the habit of going home with Biggar on the top of the last tram—they lived near each other out Lambeth way somewhere—and on this night the quaint little form of Biggar appeared in his smart, trim dress, sword, paste buttons and all, without even an overcoat, to go home, as usual.

His companion remonstrated, but in vain, nor would Biggar even consent to ride as far as the tram would have taken him, but got down, as was his custom, at the extreme point to which a penny conveyed him and walked the street thence to his rooms His companion went so far as to offer to pay the extra penny out of his own pocket, but Biggar refused sternly He was savage at the foolish expense to which he had already gone and would not have even a penny more made of it

A man capable of such indifference to costume has a right to remonstrate about feminine attention to dress, but few are those men!—Mrs Fenwick-Miller in London Graphic

Horses Can Count.

A Russian doctor has been experimenting to find how far some domestic animals can count. The intelligence of the horse, as shown in mathematics, seems to surpass that of the cat or the dog

The doctor found a horse which was able to count the mile posts along the way. It had been trained by its master to stop for feed whenever they had covered 25 versts One day they tried the horse over a road where three false mile posts had been put in between the real ones, and, sure enough, the horse, deceived by this trick, stopped for his oats at the end of 22 versts, instead of going the usual 25.

The same horse was accustomed to being fed every day at the stroke of noon. The doctor observed that whenever the clock struck the horse would stop and prick up his ears as if counting. If he heard 12 strokes, he would trot off contentedly to be fed, but if it were fewer than 12 he would resignedly go on working. The experiment was made of striking 12 strokes at the wrong time, whereupon the horse started for his oats in spite of the fact that he had been fed only an hour before.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Von Bulow Rehearsal.

When in Munich some years ago directing the Wagner operas, a woman of society asked the late Hans von Bulow one evening to be allowed to attend the rehearsal of the orchestra on the following day. Bulow replied that it would give him great pleasure to have her present later in the week, when the orchestra had played oftener. However, on the following day Bulow caught sight of her in the theater as he took his baton in hand. He stopped the music, held a hurried conversation with one of the members of the orchestra, and then ascended to his place again. He flourished his baton, and one instrument began to sound. He continued to beat the air, and the instrument continued to play—only three different notes. For five minutes this was kept up, the other musicians remaining silent. The poor lady became half crazy in the course of time, and in disgust at Bulow and Wagner left the room. The rehearsal was then continued.—San Francisco Argonaut.

For Sleeplessness.

If persons troubled with sleeplessness would keep at hand a bottle of the following mixture and use it as a sponge bath, they would find the greatest relief: Into 8 ounces of alcohol put 2 of ammonia and 2 of camphor. Shake thoroughly, and when well mixed add 4 ounces of sea salt and enough hot water to fill a quart bottle To apply it pour a little of the liquid in a shallow dish, moisten the whole body a little at a time by dipping a small sponge in it. Rub on only a very little, then finish with a vigorous rubbing with a coarse crash towel. Get into bed, and you will promptly fall asleep.—New York Recorder.

Supposing a Case.

Manager—This new play, I expect, will be a big success. In the first act you appear as a beggarly clerk in a dry goods establishment, kicked about by your employers and the floorwalker and contemned by the customers. Then three years elapse between the first and second acts and——

Actor—You wouldn't mind paying my salary in advance for those three years? I'm awfully short.

Manager—I ought to have said 'are supposed to elapse.' You can suppose you got your three years' salary in advance —Boston Transcript.

A Scrupulous Censor.

When Rome was under the papal power, a play was once submitted to the prelate charged with the revision of manuscripts for the press In the first scene an actor is represented as sitting at a table and calling, "Waiter, a beefsteak" The scrupulous censor wrote in the margin, "Note—When the piece is played during Lent the actor, instead of calling for a beefsteak, will order an omelet."—San Francisco Argonaut.

A WONDERFUL CASE.

Mrs. Thomas Stockton, of Lafayette, McKean Co., Has Cause for Rejoicing—Physicians in and Out of Hospitals Experimented and Operated Upon Her Without the Least Benefit—Her Acknowledgment of the Great Good She derived From a Simple Remedy—The Medical Profession Now Using the Same Means in Other Cases With Wonderful Results.

LAFAYETTE, McKean Co.,—The great interest shown in the recovery from disease of Mrs. Thomas Stockton, of this place, bids fair to attain national importance. Every person living within miles of Lafayette well knows of the suffering she has borne for years past, and that she should seem now to have recovered so as to be about again, is looked upon as almost miraculous. A statement of Mrs. Stockton's case would interest so many that your correspondent has obtained full particulars.

"The first development of my disease," said Mrs. Stockton, "was in my growing very large. I consulted Dr. Ward of Mt. Alton, and he said that I had dropsy of the bowels; I kept growing worse and it seemed to me I suffered everything but death. Dr. Ward advised me to go the Bradford, Penn., Hospital, which I did and he operated upon me there, assisted by Dr. Nichols and Dr. James. I had been out of the hospital but a short while, when blood poisoning set in and my husband called in a physician from Mt. Jewett, who attended me for three weeks and then said he could do no more for me and gave me up to die. My good husband then took me to Smithport, to consult Dr. Freeman, who wanted to operate upon me, but as I had already gone through one awful experience of that kind, I refused to again. After arriving back home, I made up my mind to try Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, as I had heard of it doing others so much good, so my husband went to Thompson & Wood's drug store in Bradford, and purchased a bottle and it certainly was a Godsend to me. From the very first it seemed to help me, the pain I had endured constantly, began to leave me, my appetite improved, and it was not long before I was around the house doing considerable work. In short, had it not been for Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, I believe I should have been in my grave to-day. I hope every one suffering from disease, especially women, will try this valuable medicine. I know of many here who are using Favorite Remedy since it helped me so much, and in every case it has proved its great value."

In speaking with one of our physicians about Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, he said.

"In the discovery of Favorite Remedy, Dr. Kennedy produced the only true antidote for uric acid and as a blood purifier and nerve tonic, it has no equal." Favorite Remedy was for a time supplied to patients only through physicians, but the demand became so great that Dr. Kennedy was obliged to place it on sale with all dealers in medicine. It is a never failing specific in diseases of the skin, liver, kidneys and blood. It restores the disordered liver to a healthy condition, corrects the worst cases of habitual constipation, it is a certain cure for the diseases and weakness peculiar to women. SHOTS HERE AND THERE.

AN "ARGUS" MAN OFF DUTY AIMS AT SEVERAL SUBJECTS.

Popular With Clerks—Wants to Be Sent to an Insane Asylum—Says She Is Crazy but Doctors Say She Is Not—Electric Cars a Help to North Street's Business.

I am told that many of the clerks about town regard it as quite the proper thing to get on the electric cars, after the stores have closed, and take a ride out to the North End and back. This cheap and harmless dissipation gives them rest and change and a breath of fresh air, and after their little outing they are ready to go home and to bed.

Miss Minnie Baker, twenty-five years of age, who lives with her mother in a pretty home at Arlington, Dutchess county, differs from all the rest of the world in that her one great desire is to get into an asylum for the insane, for treatment. Eighteen months ago, Miss Baker made up her mind that she was insane and since then she has called on nearly every doctor in Poughkeepsie and tried to convince them that she ought to be sent to an asylum, but none of them would say that she is a fit subject for a mad-house. Thursday she concluded to try her luck with the lawyers and visited several offices, almost beseeching that she be put in an asylum.

The history of Miss Baker's case is most interesting. She is a dressmaker and her life was successful and happy until about two years ago, when she became nervous and listless and lost interest in life and the power of application. She made up her mind that she was ill, and presently began to read patent medicine advertisements and to match each gruesome recital of symptoms to her own case. It was not long before she could think and talk of nothing but her ailments, and she finally reached the conclusion that she was insane. This has since become a fixed belief and she now often declares that she is afraid to remain at home because of the impulse to kill herself that possesses her at times. It does not seem to have occurred to the doctors with whom she has talked, that the whole story about her pains, her illness and her various afflictions may have been a delusion, and although it is logically absurd to speak of the delusion that she is insane, why should not that delusion yield to treatment as do the delusions of the insane. It really seems to a layman that a taste of asylum life would be a great help to this young woman.

"The electric cars aren't the nuisance on the business part of North street that it was feared they would be. They have had the effect of driving from the street the wagons which used to obstruct it when every pillar and post was used as a hitching post by country people having errands about town, and there really is more room in the street for moving vehicles than there was before the cars were started. Merchants who were a little afraid that the running of the cars would drive business from the street have changed their views, and I notice that some business men are advertising that the cars pass their doors

First Congregational Endeavorers' Election.

The semi-annual election of officers of the Y. P. S. C. E. of the First Congregational Church, occurs on Monday evening, May 14th. After the business meeting a social will be enjoyed by the members. Paterson People Always Welcome.

"Paterson populating Orange county" is the heading given to an item in the Wantage Recorder on the Unionville silk mill. Orange county can well afford to receive all such people from Paterson as those who make up the managers and employes of the Unionville silk mill. Middletown has had some acquisitions from Paterson and would be glad to have more.

IS MIDDLETOWN WICKED?

Port Jervis Papers Trying to Divert Attention from Their Wicked Town—A Story at the Expense of Middletown

Since the Port Jervis ministers have commenced to expose the wickedness of that village the local newspapers are trying to show that Newburgh, Middletown and other places are equally as wicked. The Union tells the following story at the expense of Middletown:

A Port Jervis man who spent Sunday night at Middletown relates the following incident, which he thinks is significant of the conventional ideas of morality that prevail in that city:

Before Col. Ingersoll's lecture he repaired with a friend to one of the saloons of the city, to which he found no difficulty in obtaining admission (through the side door), neither did he encounter any insuperable obstacles, when he made known to the accommodating landlord his desire to be supplied with a glass of lager. The proprietor obligingly made ready to serve the drinks and was actually in the act of drawing the beer when he caught sight of his five-year-old son rolling marbles across the bar. Operations were instantly suspended and the father, shocked at the exhibition of juvenile depravity, thus addressed the young hopeful:

"Ain't you ashamed of yourself to be playing marbles on Sunday? Is this what you learn in Sunday School? Go up stairs and go to bed." And the young hopeful slunk off with the air of a detected criminal, while his virtuous father resumed operations behind the bar, which had been temporarily suspended by the above described incident.
